MILITARY HISTORY IN THE MAKING

#3 | JAN-FEB 2013

FEATURES

6 The Somali Pirates

The last two decades have seen an explosion of piracy, with most of them basing out of Somalia. They've little military capability, yet have been able to operate in the face of the naval power of the major nations. Here's our analysis. by Joseph Miranda

28 What If?

Invasion: North Vietnam, April 1967
Throughout our involvement in Vietnam, we fought according to the then-dominant "limited war" doctrine. There were many reasons for that strategy, but we can now ask: what if we had invaded North Vietnam? by David R. Higgins

40 The USMC at An Nasiriyah, March 2003

The battle in the southern Iraq city of An Nasiriyah was fought over transport routes coveted by the forces of the invading Coalition as well as those of Saddam Hussein. It was an engagement that didn't start well for the Coalition. Here's our analysis. by Kelly Bell
